Is there a dual program?

Captioned "Whither Secretary Benson? —a dual program of rural education?", the following appeared in the November 15 issue of the Educational Press Association's NEWSLETTER, a National publication:

"Vocational educators are concerned over the fact that the Secretary of Agriculture Benson is building up an educational program through his extension service in direct competition with the regularly—constituted vocational agriculture programs of the public schools.

"During the past 12 months Secretary Benson has obtained from Congress additional funds to increase the number of extension agents to perform functions which more properly belong in the public vocational schools.

"Educators in Washington point out that what is needed is a conference between the Secretary of Agriculture and the U. S. Commissioner of Education to assure that their efforts do not conflict."

Editor's Note: There should be no conflict between the agricultural extension service and vocational education in agriculture. There is need for both programs. Secretary Benson has taken a very positive, aggressive and successful stand in his efforts to obtain additional federal funds for the agriculture extension service. At his request, the appropriation was increased by approximately $8 million for fiscal 1955. There is a rumor that another increase will be requested for fiscal 1956. We would like to see U. S. Commissioner of Education Dr. Samuel Brownell and the Hon. Oveta Culp Hobby, Secretary, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, take a similar stand to increase federal funds for vocational education. Both of these programs are educational in nature. Both should be governed by the same policy and have the support of the federal government.
